

What they say about Vote Smart & VoteEasy

The American Political Science Association honors Project Vote Smart as “The Best source for accurate political information on the World Wide Web”. After studying the 34 finalists’ sites, the Chairman of the American Political Science Association’s Computer and Multimedia section called it a “no brainer.” (www.votesmart.org). – American Political Science Award

“Project Vote Smart is so good that even the Federal Government recommends it.” – The New York Times

“[Project Vote Smart] would make the Founders weep for joy!” – US News & World Report

“Vote Smart is a bright light in an often desultory civic culture.” – Bill Moyers

“Project Vote Smart jammed a wrench into the spin machine, the political and media apparatus that anoints candidates and disenfranchises the vast majority of voters.” – The Atlanta Journal-Constitution

“Project Vote Smart specializes in reliable, unbiased political information.” – The San Diego Union-Tribune

The 2011 Webvionary Awards selected VoteEasy as the best there is, in the “Visualize This” category.

The Senior Curator at the New York Museum of Modern Art chose VoteEasy to display in MoMA’ s “ Talk To Me” exhibit to be presented to the public through November 7, 2011.

“The ultimate tool for pre-election research; this site does a great job of connecting you to political candidates that share your views in a fun, dynamic way.” –Jill Nussbaum, Executive Creative Director, R/GA; 2010 Communication Arts Annual

“Vote Smart demystifies the voting process and makes it accessible and informative.” –Jared Benson, Executive Creative Director, Punchcut; 2010 Communication Arts Annual

“I loved “VoteEasy” as I could take a survey in twelve different categories and then see which candidates lined up with the majority of my views (which do not fit into a tidy little box with any single “party platform” but which reside purely within my heart). This is a non-partisan, non-profit website manned chiefly by volunteers which operates on non-political, private donations. Very, very, very cool....I think our Founding Fathers would approve!” – Labyrinth Wellness, LLC Blog

“VoteEasy – If you are wondering who to vote for this year, this interactive political website is a must-have. See how local candidates view hot-button issues including health care, immigration, environment, abortion, taxes and the economy.
–Suite101.com

“The good folks at Project Vote Smart have developed an interactive feature that quickly matches your opinions on critical issues to congressional candidates you’ll be choosing in the November election. Think of VoteEasy as the eHarmony of political web sites.” – The Sacramento Bee

“The best part about VoteEasy is that it actually does help you make decisions about who to vote for. It lets you explore through a fun and engaging interactive without sacrificing clarity and accuracy.” – Flowingdata.com

“VoteEasy [votesmart.org] is a visually engaging interactive tool...Next to its obvious usefulness, the website seems especially unique in its consistent visual flow and cool animated graphics. The fluid navigation structure reacts to the specific interests and information needs of the user” –Infosthetics.com

“Here’s what Project Vote Smart is doing for you this year. It’s at voteeasy.org...You will find a very user-friendly (not to mention graphically entertaining) system on which you can check out congressional candidates’ position on key issues.” –Austin American Statesman